

Preparation Time: 20 minutes

Chili should be straightforward. It should be warm, not hot. It should be hearty, not thick. It is ubiquitous — so here's my way.

Seasoning

1	2 Tbsp	chili powder	Combine all in a small dish. Set aside.
	1 tsp	cumin
	1 tsp	cocoa powder
	1 tsp	red pepper flakes
	1/2 tsp	garlic powder
	1/2 tsp	salt
	1/2 tsp	paprika
	1/4 tsp	cayenne

Soup

2	1 lb	ground beef	Brown beef in 4 to 6 quart dutch oven or pot. As the beef finishes add pepper, onion, and garlic. Allow vegetables to simmer and soften. Clear a spot and add the seasonings directly into the drippings and exposed bottom of the pan. Allow these to bloom for 1-2 minutes before stirring into mixture.
	1 medium	onion, diced
	1 large	green bell pepper, diced
	2 cloves	garlic, minced
	28 oz	canned, whole tomatoes
	1 dish	seasonings from Step 1	Add can tomatoes and cover for 15 minutes.
3	16 oz	tomato sauce	After tomatoes have simmered and softened, break them down using a wooden spoon or other suitable utensil. Break them up as fine as desired. Add remaining ingredients, and allow to come to a simmer. Cook for longer to allow flavors to “meld”.
	16 oz	pinto beans, drained & rinsed
	16 oz	chicken, beef, or vegetable broth
